BEFORE WE BEGIN

Housekeeping

A few ground rules so everyone gets the most out of this session

Be Present & Accountable

- Clocked in to ADP – you are on the clock; this training is paid time
- Cameras on – it keeps everyone engaged and present
- Not driving – if you're on the road, pull over or rejoin later; safety first
- Actively engaged – phones down, other tabs closed, eyes on the session

Set Yourself Up

- Find a quiet space with a stable connection
- Mic muted unless you're speaking – cut the background noise
- Have a pen and paper (or notes open) ready
- Join on time – we start and end promptly out of respect for your day

How We'll Work Together

- Ask questions – drop them in chat or unmute anytime
- This is a conversation, not a lecture – jump in
- Share what's working in your market; we learn from each other
- The recording and deck will be shared afterward

★ Why this matters: the habits we ask for on this call – present, engaged, distraction-free – are the same habits that book appointments at the booth. Practice them here.

BEFORE THE DOORS OPEN

Proper Booth Setup

Two formats, one standard – branded, clean, and staffed to engage

Outdoor Event · Tent Setup

Branded canopy and valance, fitted aisle-facing table cover, product backdrop at eye level, samples and literature laid out neatly, current offer on a stand, and weighted canopy legs for safety.

Indoor Show · Booth Setup

Pull-up banners create a tall, eye-level backdrop that draws homeowners in from down the aisle. Angling the greeting table to the side – not as a wall across the front – forms an open L-shape people can step into instead of stopping at the edge. An open booth earns more conversations than one barricaded behind a table.

★ The standard: if a homeowner can't tell who you are and what you do from ten feet away, the booth isn't ready. Branding pulls them in; the SPACE method takes it from there.

BEFORE THE DOORS OPEN

Booth Setup Standards

Every booth, every event — work this list before doors open

Brand Every Surface

- Fitted, wrinkle-free table cover facing the aisle
- Banners and backdrop up, squared, and upright
- Logo visible from down the aisle
- Current offer flyer on a stand at eye level

Keep It Clean & Open

- Hide totes, bags, coats, and food behind the skirt
- Tabletop styled – samples and literature neat, not piled
- Front of booth open and inviting – don't block it
- Stand at the edge; never sit behind the table

Ready to Capture

- Tablet charged; lead form and QR code loaded
- Flyers, samples, and pens stocked – restock midday
- Canopy weighted (outdoor); lighting checked (indoor)
- Set up at least 30 minutes before doors open

★ First impressions are made once. A homeowner decides whether to stop at your booth in about three seconds – before you say a word. The setup does that work for you, so you can focus on the conversation.

HOW WE WORK THE BOOTH

The SPACE Method

Every great booth conversation follows the same arc. Move through it in order – each step earns the next. Listen more than you speak, and let curiosity do the selling.

S — Start the Conversation 01
Open with curiosity – get them talking about their space

P — Present Who We Are 02
Deliver the core message with confidence

A — Ask & Qualify 03
Keep them talking – listen more than you speak

C — Close with the Offer 04
Assume the appointment – offer times, not permission

E — Explain Expectations and Build Excitement 05
Warm-down – set them up before they leave the booth

★ The throughline: the more you learn, the stronger the appointment. Qualify well, set the visit, and confirm the details before they walk away.

STEP 01

Start the Conversation

Open with curiosity – get them talking about their space

Which one would you choose?

> “ Hi! Are you thinking about adding some extra living space to your home?

> “ Have you ever wished you could enjoy your patio or deck year-round?

> “ What brings you to the show today?

★ Bonus opener: “Quick question, any plans to update your backyard this year?”

STEP 01 · WHY IT WORKS

Why We Open This Way

The first ten seconds decide whether there is a conversation at all

Lower the guard

People at home shows are bombarded by booths trying to sell them something. Opening with a curiosity-based question instead of a pitch immediately lowers their guard – it feels like a conversation, not a transaction.

Qualify before you invest

You're finding out whether they're even a candidate before investing booth time. A question about their space tells you in seconds if there's a project behind the smile.

Give hesitant people an easy yes

The bonus opener is deliberately low-stakes – anyone can answer a quick question about their backyard. It gives hesitant browsers a reason to stop and engage without feeling sold to.

STEP 02

Present Who We Are

Deliver the core message with confidence

Trusted for over 60 years

We've been doing this longer than most companies have existed – your project is in experienced hands.

We design, manufacture & install it all

We design, manufacture, install, guarantee, & service

Custom-made for your home

Every sunroom, screen room, and patio enclosure is built specifically for your space – no off-the-shelf kits.

More space. Not a full addition.

You get beautiful, usable living space without the cost and disruption of a traditional home addition.

More glass. Less frame.

More edge-to-edge glass than other leading sunroom brands – for maximum view and natural light.

STEP 02 · WHY IT WORKS

Why We Lead With These Points

Each message answers a question the prospect is already asking silently

Credibility first

60+ years builds instant trust – it answers “are these people legit?” before the prospect even asks.

No middlemen, no finger-pointing

We design, manufacture, install, and service everything. That reassures them they won’t be bounced between contractors – or left pointing fingers if something goes wrong.

Separation from big-box

Custom-made and “no off-the-shelf kits” separates us from big-box competitors and justifies the investment.

Speak to budget anxiety

“More space, not a full addition” speaks directly to the cost fear most prospects walked in carrying.

STEP 03

Ask & Qualify

Keep them talking — listen more than you speak

> “ Do you have an existing deck, concrete patio, or covered porch we’d be working with?

> “ Are you looking for something seasonal like a screen room, or a climate-controlled year-round space?

> “ Is this about enjoying the outdoors more, or creating a true extra room in the home?

- Listen for: existing structure, climate preference, and motivation (entertaining, hobbies, extra room). The more you learn, the stronger the appointment.

STEP 03 · WHY IT WORKS

Why We Ask These Questions

Three answers decide your close — structure, season, and motivation

Know three things before you close

Do they have something to work with (existing structure)? What climate and season needs do they have (product fit)? And what's really driving the interest (the emotional hook)?

Motivation chooses your language

Listening for whether it's entertaining, hobbies, or a true extra room tells you which product to emphasize – and exactly what language to use when you close.

Qualified leads show up

A well-qualified lead keeps the appointment. An unqualified one doesn't. The questions aren't small talk – they're no-show prevention.

STEP 04

Close with the Offer

Assume the appointment — offer times, not permission

> Great – let's get one of our design consultants out to you. They'll measure your space, bring samples, and use our design app to show you exactly what it could look like – completely free, no obligation. Are weekdays or weekends easier for you?

IF THEY SAY…	YOU SAY…
"We're just browsing."	"Perfect – that's exactly what the consultation is for. Free, zero pressure, just ideas. Are weekdays or weekends easier for you two?"
"We need to think about it."	"Absolutely – and the easiest way to think it over is with real measurements and a real design in front of you. Our designer answers everything right at your home. Does later this week work, or is next week better?"
"We can't afford it right now."	"That's exactly why the visit is free – you'll know what's actually possible before spending a dime. Most people are surprised. Let's get you a spot – what day's best?"

★ The mechanic: never ask permission – offer two times. Every response ends on the calendar, not on a yes/no. If they pick a day, you've closed.

★ Work the screen together: as you gather their information, turn so you are both looking at the phone screen while data is entered, and let them see the calendar to choose their appointment. Seeing the screen prompts the customer to provide information instead of us asking for it.

STEP 04 · WHY IT WORKS

Why We Frame It This Way

Remove every objection before it's spoken – then assume the yes

Remove objections before they're made

"Free, no obligation, just ideas" takes every excuse off the table before the prospect can reach for one.

The appointment is the product

At the booth, you aren't selling a sunroom – you're selling the visit. The designer does the heavy lifting at the home.

Assume, don't ask

Offering two options – "weekdays or weekends?" – assumes agreement and moves the conversation forward without feeling pushy. Either answer books the appointment.

Reframe, never argue

The objection responses work because they never fight the hesitation – they simply reframe it as a reason to say yes.

STEP 05

Explain Expectations and Build Excitement

Warm-down – set them up before they leave the booth

Once they've agreed, walk through these four steps before they walk away.

1

THANK & RECAP

"Thanks for stopping by! Just to confirm – you're looking at a _____ and we have your appointment set for _____ at _____."

2

WHAT TO EXPECT

"Your design consultant will come to your home, measure the space, bring product samples, and use our design app to help plan your project. Plan for about 90 minutes – no pressure, no obligation."

3

DECISION MAKERS

"Since everything is custom-made for your home, please make sure all homeowners and decision makers are present for the visit."

If a spouse or partner hasn't been mentioned – ask now and confirm the time works for everyone.

4

CONFIRM & SEND OFF

"You'll get a confirmation email shortly and a text reminder 24 hours before. Check your spam if you don't see the email. Any questions before you go?"

Before They Leave MARKETER CHECKLIST

- ☐ Full name, address, phone, and email captured correctly
- ☐ All homeowners / decision makers confirmed present for the appointment
- ☐ Referral name and address captured (if applicable)
- ☐ Customer opted in to text appointment reminders
- ☐ Sweepstakes flyer offered – QR code pointed out

STEP 05 · WHY IT WORKS

Why This Step Matters

Most cancellations are commitment failures – the warm-down prevents them

Cancellations are commitment failures

Most no-shows happen because the prospect forgot, never fully committed, or didn't realize a spouse needed to be there. Every line of the warm-down attacks one of those causes.

Recap reinforces commitment

Repeating back what they agreed to – the product, the day, the time – makes the commitment real in their own ears.

No surprises means less anxiety

Setting realistic expectations for the visit removes the unknowns that cause cold feet between the show and the appointment.

Decision-makers prevent the stall

Explicitly requiring all homeowners present kills the "I need to talk to my husband" stall on appointment day – before it can happen.

Make the follow-up expected

Mentioning the confirmation email and text reminder makes our follow-up feel expected rather than intrusive.

Objection Handling Quick Guide

Field-ready responses for the five most common pushbacks

OBJECTION	YOUR RESPONSE
"It's too expensive."	"Great news – we offer flexible financing, and this adds a room at a fraction of a full addition's cost. Let's have the designer price it out at your home – do weekdays or weekends work better?"
"I need to think about it."	"Absolutely – the easiest way to think it over is with exact pricing and a real design in front of you, free and no obligation. Let's get you on the schedule – is later this week or next week better?"
"I can get it cheaper elsewhere."	"We custom-build every room in the USA with premium materials and a lifetime structural warranty. The designer will show you the full value at no cost – what day works best to take a look?"
"How long does it take?"	"Most installations take just 2–5 days once permits are approved, and we handle all the permitting. Let's get the designer out to measure – are mornings or afternoons better for you?"
"My HOA might not allow it."	"We work with HOAs all the time and our designers know how to navigate those guidelines. Let's get a visit on the calendar so we can check your specifics – what day works best?"

WRAP-UP

You Now Have the Playbook.

Execute the SPACE method at every booth — start to send-off.

START	PRESENT	ASK	CLOSE	EXPLAIN

Be Curious First

Open with a question, not a pitch. Curiosity earns the conversation.

Qualify to Close

The more you learn, the stronger the appointment. Listen more than you speak.

Assume the Yes

Offer two times, not permission. Every response ends on the calendar.

★ The goal of every booth conversation: book the in-home appointment. SPACE gets you there every time.
